

Student Union

Jordan University of Science and Technology (JUST) has a recognized Student Union that represents both undergraduate and postgraduate students at the university level. The Student Union serves as the official body advocating for students' rights, organizing extracurricular activities, and fostering student engagement in university governance.

The Student Union leadership is elected through a democratic process, allowing students to vote and select their representatives. This ensures that the union remains a true reflection of students' voices and interests.

The responsibilities of the Student Union include organizing cultural, social, artistic, and sports activities, as well as enhancing students' national awareness and social responsibility. It also aims to strengthen relationships among students, faculty members, and university staff, and to represent students in various university councils and committees.

The Student Union operates under specific regulations that outline its structure, objectives, and election procedures. These regulations ensure transparency and fairness in the union operations and elections.
